

Mahammad F. MEHDIYEV, Nina I. FOMINA, Nazanin A. SARDARLI

TORSION PROBLEM OF TRANSVERSELY ISOTROPIC HOLLOW CONE OF VARIABLE THICKNESS

Abstract

The torsion problem of transversally isotropic hollow cone of variable thickness is considered. The exact solution of the problem is given. The exact solutions obtained for thin walled shells are asymptotically studied. New two-dimensional equations are suggested for a torsion problem of conical shell.