

Abstract

The paper is devoted to the investigation of stability of elastic medium-filled cylindrical shells reinforced by cross system of ribs under axial compression.

The values of critical stress parameter are found and influence of external medium parameter on this parameter is analyzed.