

Abstract

In the given paper we consider a compression of a rectilinear bar on an elastic base. The problem is solved in two statements; in the frames of linear theory and with regard to geometrical nonlinearity. For the latter case we show the existence of limiting value of contractive load and this value is found. Permutation of loaded end is determined.