

Abstract

The methods of solution of problems on determination of stress state in composite materials with near-surface curved fiber, are developed within the piece-wise homogeneous body model with attraction of exact three-dimensional equations of geometrical nonlinear theory of elasticity.